a) Applicant Interviews

Colin Finley – Community Design Commission

New to Oak Park.

Colin Finley has professional experience in working with small businesses to help them design and buildout their spaces and working with small businesses that are trying to break into and work in a community and work with community members in the process. From a design perspective, being engaged and understand how that process works has been interesting to him. He is excited to bring his passion and experience to the Community Design Commission and to facilitate the CDC to better communicate the commission's work to the community and to those individuals that are trying to get projects approved through the CDC.

Jason Wright – Community Design Commission

Jason Wright is a forensic accountant with a passion for architecture and design. He has experience in law which he could utilize in relation to the sign codes. He looks forward to giving back to his community.

Marc Blesoff – Aging in Place Commission

Marc Blesoff is a 40-year resident of Oak Park. He has been active in conscious aging, facilitating conscious aging workshops and writes a monthly column for the Wednesday Journal. He has also been involved with the Neighborhood Age-Friendly Collaborative, the Age Options Advisory Council, and the Metropolitan Mayors Caucus Age-Friendly Community Collaborative. He is excited to engage with all the commissions in discussions as to what is community and how their commissions' work impacts the aging population in Oak Park.

Evelyn Clay – Aging in Place Commission

Evelyn Clay is deeply interested in the issues of engaging and supporting older residents to remain active, visible and heard as contributing members of the community as they age in place. As both a long-term resident and a seasoned senior, Evelyn has firsthand experience with many of the issues that she believes the aging commission should be engaging around: what does it mean for the needs and interests of older citizens to be considered in our community plans and commitments such as the new community center, our public transportation system, and public safety.
